Stonefield Railroad Crossing Update

Work on installing new lights and guard at the railroad crossing on Stonefield Road is expected to start this spring. The replacement is required by the Federal government. The SNA board worked with the city to support modifications that would result in a more aesthetically appealing crossing.

The project will include the installation of a median and a narrowing of the street near the tracks. Signals and crossing guards will be placed on both sides of the street and in the median.

A survey conducted by the SNA board last year showed that neighbors were in favor of this option, and approved giving the SNA board the authority to provide cost-sharing for this project.
